By reflecting the policy of Mussolini's Government, is serving notice that nothing short of party with France will appease Italian sentiment and aspirations.

Washington foresees trouble ahead in this Franco-Italian jealousy. Both countries have been engaged in competitive naval building in the last few years and both claim the Mediterranean as their particular sphere of influence.

France and Britain Clash on League Peace Plan

Geneva, Sept. 16 (AP)—The problem of the hour, world disarmament, was the subject of a League of Nations today as it began the third week of its deliberations.

A certain conflict of views between British and French delegates arose today when the assembly's committee on disarmament resumed consideration of a scheme for giving financial assistance to the victims of aggression war.

The French wished that the League committee before voting aid to a menaced state, should ask bold questions if they would be asked by the ruling of the council.

For Great Britain, Lord Cullen, by the method of procedure would involve delay which might be fatal to peace.

Progress toward disarmament is expected to depend largely upon the agreement of Lord Cullen before the preparatory disarmament committee.

An outline of his ideas already has aroused considerable interest among the British. Lord Cullen understood the resolution amounts to little more than a declaration that the League of Nations should be a necessary body for the action of its member states, and that the question of the League of Nations should be dealt with ultimately in any general plan of world disarmament.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Sept. 16 (AP)—Because he tried to register the United States legally after having entered the country five years ago, Frank Szabo, a Hungarian, was arrested today by United States immigration inspectors.

Soon after his arrival Szabo went across the Falls View bridge to Canada, but he was detained at the Canadian end of the bridge by Canadian immigration inspectors who refused to allow him to enter Canada.

When he came back over the bridge Szabo was held up by United States immigration men and refused admittance under the quota law.

"I should have stayed in the United States when I was here," Szabo told police. "Maybe the immigration fellows would not have found out about me."

His wife is in Toronto, Ontario. He was born in Austria.

in the evening when it is very easy to reach out-of-town friends by telephone.

The family hour after dinner, before social engagements call them away, is the real "telephone hour."

To add to your pleasure, a low evening rate is in effect from seven to eight-thirty. On calls by number at distances above forty miles, the rates are about one quarter less than normal day rates.

Traffic records show that a greater percentage of calls can be completed promptly in the period from seven to eight-thirty than at any other time in the evening.

Plan your social calls during this period. We are sure you will be pleased with the speed and economy of this evening service.

Two Suspects in Reinstate Case Gain Liberty; Woman Held for Questioning

Investigation I learned considerable about that part of the department. According to my idea, the two men blamed for what took place are well-trained and capable police officers, but the officers of the police department have pointed the growth of the bureau and not helped.

Blundering men from the Bureau are accustomed to conducting investigations and the best men in the department had not been selected.

The administration of the department is charged to Commissioner Wilson and he is responsible for the blundering procedure. I don't like to go into personalities but since the case of the Italian in charge of espionage.

Life in the case of that bureau and subversive to order of his superior. No one can prove to me or anyone else he was negligent in the performance of his duty.

This is a big case, not a country town. It is about time we had a series of officers in the field, who would have the proper authority to operate without interference from other departments and their commanding officers should not be high enough to supersede all other police authority in the district where the crime takes place.

HUNT FOR SHERMAN.

The arrest of Reo and O'Donnell by order of Chief Inspector Stanley C. Armstrong caused a break between the office of Chief City, William J. Foley and the police. Foley said the arrests were not warranted and characterized the action as "amateurish."

The district attorney's office is concentrating for a search for "Chink" Sherman, a New York gangster, who was wanted for the murder of Louis Buchalter, "Bossie" on Tremont at last year.

Letters mentioning Sherman were found in Reinstate's possession and police have had knowledge long enough to believe he was well known to him.

At about the time of the killing of "Chink," local officials found it impossible to extradite Sherman from New York, where he is well known.

MISS TRUMBULL'S GIRL HAS A REGAL TROUSSEAU

Flushing, Ct., Sept. 15.—Florence Trumbull's trousseau is completed. Countless gowns and frocks and ensembles have been bought. Thousands of dollars have been spent. Florence is to be fitted as a queen. And a regal one she will make when a week from today she weds John Coolidge.

The normal waistline and below the knee lines, the distinguishing mark of this season's fashion, dominates John Coolidge's prospective bride's trousseau.

Green is her favorite color, and a superlative attending this shade has been cast into the discard. Of hunter's green, a smart fall color, incidentally, is her going away gown of patterned velvet, with a creamy satin blouse and developed in full crepe, the dress being suitable for afternoon and informal dinner wear.

After the manner of Paris are Miss Trumbull's gowns fashioned, many of them copies of original models. The cheapest frock is $43.50 and others mount into sumptuous and triple that.

Her wedding gown, not of the traditional snowy white, is a creamy yellow tulle, a princess model with long shirred sleeves, full yoke, laced by Mrs. Calvin Coolidge is to be worked into a rap effect.

The silhouette outline, such as Miss Trumbull's simple, straight lines, slightly moulded to her figure and usually with irregular hem lines, are the embodied features of the wardrobe.

She selected three afternoon gowns, including in addition to the hunter's green one a marine blue canton crepe and a powder blue flat crepe.

Of the more tailored type have several other costumes been selected. Sport dresses of jersey and knitted types and of velvet and a stunning three-piece sport suit of brown English cheviot with beige jersey blouse, having a novel zipper fastening and tricky pockets, are included. With this Miss Trumbull plans to wear a brown felt hat, alligator shoes and an alligator purse.

Each costume in the trousseau has a hat to match. Most of these have been moulded to her head and are of felt.

Beautiful Hands
Contest Urged
Editor Boston American:

Just a few lines from a constant reader of the Boston American who wishes to know why the contest your paper has on the ways for the face or figure but never for beautiful hands. Now, why is that?

God has given some of us beautiful hands. Some of us have again, some of us he has, well, not overlooked. So it's up to you to give us a chance not on our face, but on our hands.

DECENT LOOKING HANDS.
Help Benchwarmers,
Says Cambridge Man
Editor Boston American:

As to your editorial of Tuesday, September 10, Old Benches, it is necessary that something be done by the state to relieve the condition of our benchwarmers of the Common and public places; apparently the class who have not retired voluntarily but because age has deprived them of their jobs.

Depriving my gas and electric light bills, I said to the clerk that there was a large number of people out of work. "Yes," he said, "but don't you know they are generally the same kind of people."

I met an old shop mate a few minutes later, one of the most skillful moulder in Boston. "Hello Bill, working?" I asked. "No," he replied, "I have not been able to strike a job for a month. It is not charity to get back some of what morally belongs to you when we consider the swelling capitalizations of the steel trust, oil, Alabaster, Telephone & Telegraph, General Motors, General Electric, I have before me the capitalizations of our big industries and railroads for 1914. General Electric, $1,000,000, but today its shares have a market value of three billion. With it all Mr. Young, the president, says the people own it. Boloney."

Ask your friends if they still own their 15 or 18 billions in Liberty bonds they bought during the war. If you don't wake up in Boston, you will pay 50 cents a month for the use of your gas meter and the Associated Gas & Electric in Cambridge will get

King George Limits Books to 'Thrillers'

London, Sept. 15 (AP)—King George is fighting his way back to health on a literary diet of detective yarns and thrilling mystery stories. The Daily News today reported the health of the monarch to be extraordinarily promising after his long lapse of illness last winter.

At Sandringham, the royal couple estate in Norfolk, where he is spending his summer holidays with Queen Mary, the Daily News says King George isn't permitted to read solid books at present. Serious publications deal with World War subjects still are being purchased for him, but are being purchased for future reading. Thrillers and detective tales fascinate the king and these constitute his literary fare.

There are 10 states which have no age pensions now, but our A. F. of L. does not permit in its fight. They must not forget they may be benchwarmers tomorrow.

for Printing Appeal
Editor Boston American:

I wish to thank you for helping me in my appeal. I did not get my husband's pay back, and only one person came to help me out. I guess the people did not realize the straits we are in but I'll have to trust God to help us.

For the friends who know me and of my plight did not come to our rescue, I have to send the little fellow to school. I don't know where I can send him to get the money to buy him shoes and clothing. I haven't the money to dress him, but I want you to know that I am deeply grateful to you for doing your best to help and any time that I can be of service to you I surely will not fail you.

Just remember, at twilight, a mother and her two tots will have a prayer on their lips for you and yours.

16 ARABS SLAIN BY BRITISH IN NEW CLASHES

Jerusalem, Sept. 16 (AP)—Views of a new outbreak at Hattin, near the Sea of Galilee, in which raiding Jewish tribesmen looted 16 men killed and numbers wounded before being dispersed by British military patrol, again disturbed the peaceful atmosphere of Palestine today.

No trouble between Jews and Arabs had been reported for a week.

It was hoped the incident was purely local. No fears were expressed that the affair will in any way affect the proposed visit of 200 prominent Egyptian Arabs to Palestine for the purpose of bringing about a reconciliation of the two peoples.

Reports to the Jewish Telegraphic Agency state there is growing feeling among Egyptian Arabs that the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, recognized Modern leader, is partly responsible for the recent trouble in the country.

Dissatisfaction with him is said to be partly due to his failure to fully account for funds raised in Egypt for repairing the Mosque of Omar.

The first claim for loss of life in the recent riot was filed in Jerusalem by Mendel Frauman of Chicago, for the death of his son, Harry, a student at the Hebrew University, where more than a dozen American students were among the fifty victims.

Generally, conditions seem to be assuaging normal in Palestine. Yesterday's riot in Tel Aviv was crowded with the usual week-end promiscuity and the days before the riots. All the way to the sea there were holiday crowds, and bathers swarmed the beach.

But real state where the values are. You will find a lot of valuable property being sold at very low prices.

Noted French Police Official Shot by "Madman"

Paris, Sept. 16 (AP)—Henri Bayle, director of the identification service of the French Ministry of Justice and famous as an anthropometrist, was found slain in his office today. Police expressed the belief Mr. Bayle was the victim of a madman.

Bayle developed the science of identifying paintings and works of art by the X-ray method. The police arrested a man named Joseph Philip O'Neil who is said to have confessed to murdering the famous police official for giving "dishonest" testimony in a case in which O'Neil was involved.

Both the defense and the prosecution have indicated they hoped to put Mrs. Pantages' fall in the hands of the jury by Friday night, chiefly to make way for another major trial.

Judge Hardy said the two jurors, who became ill Friday night, were sufficiently recovered to continue the case. When the indictment of the two jurors continued Saturday, Judge Hardy ordered the entire jury and the two alternates be taken from the confinement of a down town hotel for a Sunday outing.

The jurors who have been under constant guard since the trial opened, went on an all-day picnic under the court's order.

PANTAGES JURY ON PICNIC; CASE NEARS ITS END

Los Angeles, Sept. 16 (AP)—The trial of Mrs. Lois Pantages, charged with the second degree murder of Juro Rokumoto, as the result of alleged intoxication and an automobile collision, went into its anticipated final week today, with two ill jurors recovered sufficiently to resume hearing the case.

Both the defense and the prosecution have indicated they hoped to put Mrs. Pantages' fall in the hands of the jury by Friday night, chiefly to make way for another major trial.

Judge Hardy said the two jurors, who became ill Friday night, were sufficiently recovered to continue the case. When the indictment of the two jurors continued Saturday, Judge Hardy ordered the entire jury and the two alternates be taken from the confinement of a down town hotel for a Sunday outing.

$1,500,000 TO MAKE THE AIR SAFER

By BENNETT CLARK
Copyright, 1929, by Universal Service, Inc.

Washington, Sept. 15—The crash of the T. A. T. plane, City of San Francisco, with the loss of eight lives, has focused attention of the aviation world to the need for better weather forecasting facilities for airplanes.

Despite its gigantic strides in recent years, aviation has not yet been able to conquer storm and fog, the enemies of pilots.

And yet, a survey by Universal Service reveals that an additional appropriation of but $1,500,000 annually would provide a nationwide weather service that would minimize the danger of airplane disasters due to weather conditions.

Also, the survey shows that because of a lack of funds, the weather bureau has not been enabled to establish even the semblance of an adequate aviation weather service in the southwest, where many violent storms originate.

LITTLE FEDERAL AID
Strangely enough, it is over this area of parched, isolated deserts, dense timber lands and jagged peaks that rise to over 10,000 feet that the largest passenger-carrying air lines now operate.

The Transcontinental Air Lines maintain weather stations of their own to ward off approaching destructive storms that sweep up suddenly, but the federal government has done little to assist them to protect the lives of the air passengers.

The weather bureau is not to blame for this fault. Budget officials, while the blame falls on their disposal, have established model airways weather services at other parts of the country, but lack of appropriations has resulted in a lessening of the service. Aviation officials unite in stressing the importance of the bureau's work in increasing the safety of air travel.

ELIMINATES BLEND FIELD
An example of what can be done to prevent accidents due to weather conditions is demonstrated in the Cleveland-New York air route, where a "blend" station is maintained. Since its establishment not a crash has occurred because of weather conditions, although this route, lying over the Allegheny mountains, had been one of the most dangerous in the country. The station is located at Cleveland.

Consequently, a pilot in a plane equipped with radio can now at all times the weather conditions, their direction, their intensity and velocity, and the visibility along the route, and the condition of the landing field as his destination. Whenever unfavorable reports are received, the pilot can avoid a destructive storm either by turning back or by landing at an intermediate airport until the disturbance has passed over. Blind flying is eliminated.

OLD IRONSIDERS ON RADIO MENU

An intensive campaign to raise the final $200,000 necessary for the rebuilding of the frigate, Constitution, "Old Ironsides," will be launched tomorrow night in a radio program over a hook-up of 41 stations in the National Broadcasting System.

Rear Admiral Philip Andrews, commander of the navy yard at Charleston, is chairman of the national committee to save the historic vessel.

It is estimated that to date 15,000,000 school children and 50,000,000 adults have been reached by the appeal. Yet the fund is not completed.

The Constitution will start on a three-year cruise at the close of the Massachusetts Bay Tercentennial celebrations and visit practically every port on both seaboard so that as many citizens as possible may see the craft they helped restore.

The rebuilding of the Constitution was authorized by Congress in March, 1928, but no funds were appropriated. Since that time considerable sums have been realized by the sale of pictures of the vessel and from voluntary gifts.

China to Proclaim End of Extradition

Nanking, Sept. 15 (AP)—China intends to keep up her fight for the abolition of extra territoriality, but if by the end of 1929 the world powers have not recognized the claim, the National government will issue a declaration proclaiming to the world that extra territoriality has been abolished anyway, it was authoritatively stated today at the ministry of foreign affairs.

The present efforts to bring about cancellation of what China maintains are unequal treaties, will be continued at the League of Nations and elsewhere.

6,442 Flying Fields in United States Now

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 16 (AP)—The past twelve months have seen the greatest aeronautical development in the United States of any similar period since men began to fly, said a report of the American Legion's national aeronautics committee, prepared for submission to the Legion's convention.

A survey conducted by the committee, of which George E. Love of Oregon is chairman, showed there are now 6,442 flying fields in the country, compared with 1,375 a year ago. A total of 530 communities have been air marked, through the activities of the Legion, Mr. Love said.

Among the Legion's recommendations which have been put into effect were the establishment of more military and naval aviation school facilities, provision for more recreation training facilities, creation of more and better emergency landing fields, general increase in efficient and number of army aviation units, and growth of commercial aviation throughout Central and South America.

FIRST CHILD IS BORN TO LADY DIANA MANNERS

London, Sept. 16 (AP)—English society, the public and the press today showered congratulations on the birth of a son, the first child of Lady Diana Manners, the toast of London town, then as the accomplished wife of the smart young captain of the Grenadier Guards, who she accepted after refusing marriage offers from princes, dukes and military lords.

Three years ago Lady Diana played the part of the nun in Max Reinhardt's production of "The Miracle" in the United States. Viscountess Chatterbox, titled Irishman, who writes society gossip for a London newspaper, has called Lady Diana "England's most perfect wife."

For years her name has appeared in headlines in the press of Europe and America. First as Lady Diana Manners, the toast of London town, then as the accomplished wife of the smart young captain of the Grenadier Guards, who she accepted after refusing marriage offers from princes, dukes and military lords.

SUGAR

There are many facts about sugar that many people do not know

Ask most people about sugar and they are likely to think of sweet desserts. That is an important part of sugar, certainly. Scientists recommend some sweet and satisfying dessert at the end of a meal.

Then some would think of sugar as a sweetener of other foods such as tart fresh fruits and berries, fruit juices, cereals, etc. Sugar is very useful as a sweetener. Scientists tell us that many very useful foods would be almost unpalatable without sugar.

In addition to all of that, however, sugar has so many other uses that it may well be considered the foundation of good cookery. Cooking authorities explain to us that sugar modifies some flavors, intensifies others, and even develops delicate flavors that otherwise might not be tasted at all. This makes a dash of sugar useful in cooking vegetables, in preparing salad dressings, meat sauces and gravies, and many meat dishes.

Sugar even improves the texture of many foods. The right amount of sugar makes cakes tender and light. A proper addition of sugar helps to make breads light. Too little sugar used in making jelly necessitates over-cooking, impairs flavor and gives a rough texture. In heating egg-whites the right amount of sugar helps the beaten egg to hold air and remain firm and stiff.

To remove sugar from the kitchen would be to make our diet almost completely bland and unappetizing. Sugar is the supreme flavorer that makes eating the right foods delightful. Pleasure in eating makes living more enjoyable. The Sugar Institute.

TICKER TALK

Editor's Note.—This report is written before the opening of the market today. The report is an effort to inform you of the daily developments in active stocks. The Boston Evening American takes no responsibility for the statements or conclusions which it conducts this column.

But give them to you for what they are worth.

New York, Sept. 16.—With the opening of a new week in the financial world traders have had considerable time to pore over the whip-saw actions of the market. There still are several important obstacles to overcome before the horizon can be called clear for resumption of the bull advance. First there is the matter of credit. The usual heavy shifting of funds customary in action with treasury fiscal operations and quarterly income tax payments, will be underlying the beginning of the week, and may account for finances in the fall money market.

Then the broken loan question is active as a check to market buoyancy, despite all the wits and whiffling.

The tremendous increase over the past four weeks is anything but pleasing to the Federal Reserve Board. It is a possibility the board may again use pressure to cause a temporary halt in this overhauling total.

There are still individual issues entitled to sell at higher prices. It may be these stocks will be used to serve as the leaders in a new upward movement.

Speculator does not feel the time is yet ripe for the market as a whole to be bound upward. Caution and selective buying is probably the wisest procedure today.

well is helpful to the success of the movement.

WOMAN KILLED BY FIRE NINE SHOTS TO CATCH HIT AND RUN DRIVER

By FRED TOYE

ONE OF THE MOST interesting projects in connection with the coming Massachusetts centennial is the proposed construction of model colonial villages. The subject has been given considerable study by a group of prominent architects interested in the plans of the committee, and designs have been worked out in detail. It is planned to depict the life of the early settlers by means of actual and semi-permanent construction of complete towns and villages covering areas of 20 to 30 acres. The construction will not represent primitive types of dwellings, but will emphasize the fine architectural and technical skill employed in the building of private homes and public buildings from the earliest days in New England.

Supplementing the colonial villages, it is planned to depict New England Indian villages, a French fishing village of Brittany and Italian, English, Irish, German, Spanish, Lithuanian, Russian, Scotch and Swedish groups, typifying the main sources of early American immigration.

Work of this nature, on a somewhat less ambitious scale, has met with considerable success in other parts of the country. The Philadelphia Sesqui-Centennial had a unit of this type, Henry Ford's American village near Williamsburg, Va., shows what can be done along these lines.

A TIMELY note of warning is sounded with regard to the impending centennial, by Samuel Eliot Morison, professor of history at Harvard, and historical advisor to the centennial committee.

"Let us not have the centennial marred by local squabbles about who had the first school or the first bell or the first pump or the first town hall," he says. "No one can prove it, and if they could, what of it?"

PROFESSOR MORISON cites a recent instance of a prominent Massachusetts speaker telling a group of English visitors that the Massachusetts General Court, the oldest English-speaking legislative body in the world, excepting the British Parliament.

The statement is inaccurate, he points out. Our state legislature had its beginnings in the "Court of Assistants" or board of directors of the Company of the Massachusetts Bay in New England. The functions of this body started upon the arrival of John Winthrop in Salem, June 12, 1630, with the charter granted the colony by Charles I. The first meeting was called for October 10, 1630, at Boston.

THE Massachusetts Legislature is antedated by 21 years by the Virginia Legislature which had its origin in the House of Burgesses. About the same period, Bermuda had a legislative assembly.

"Massachusetts Bay was, however, the first large colony to be completely self-governing," the historian states. The charter of 1630 brought this about. When representative government was organized in 1634, it was not subject to the votes of royal officials, or of a corporate overlord. "The claim of the Massachusetts Bay colony to commemorations is based on the quality, not priority of its several achievements. It is not history, but had manner to elicit fictitious facts, or exclusive virtue for our Commonwealth."

SIX YEARS AGO the Governor of Great Council appointed a committee of historians to investigate rival claims of Dedham, Dorchester and other towns to the first public school. They reported that in the absence of records it was impossible to decide. They might have added that the whole question is without importance. If free public schools had been invented in New England there might have been some point in discussing which town had the first public school. But the settlers of Massachusetts Bay were already united to free schools in England, and naturally tried to have the same thing here.

Woman, 70, Tries to End Life at Beach

Miss Mary Gill, 70, of Yonkers, N. Y., was found floating in the bay at Caron Beach and thrown herself into the water. Arthur D. Nahn of Mansfield, N. H., who was on the beach at the time, rushed in and pulled her ashore.

Suffering from the effects of her immersion, the woman was taken to City Hospital.

DIES OF JOY AT PROSPECTS OF SEEING SON

Body of Victim Taken to N. Y., Where She Was to Have Met Boy

The joy of an impending reunion with her son was fatal to Mrs. Janet McWilliams, a passenger on the Anchor Line steamer Caledonia, who died of a heart attack shortly before the vessel docked in East Boston.

Mrs. McWilliams, who came from England, was to meet her son in New York. She was stricken as the vessel was coming up the harbor here, for a stop before proceeding to New York. The body was taken to New York for burial.

Among others arriving on the Caledonia were Hattie R. Bailey, Boston lawyer, who spent three weeks in England with Mrs. Bailey making arrangements for the meeting of the International Laborer.

Roderick Macrae, Neal S. Bailey, Boston lawyer, who spent three weeks in England with Mrs. Bailey making arrangements for the meeting of the International Laborer.

John McLaughlin arrived from Scotland to study the cooperative movement in this country. Mr. and Mrs. John Birkmire, Miss Margaret Burrell, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Stratton, Richard Stratton, Mrs. J. D. Uppshur, Dr. George Vincent, Miss Marjorie Wilson, Mary N. Woodward, all of Boston.

James Roosevelt, son of the governor, arrived in Boston with his fiancée, Miss Betty Cushing, of Brooklyn. The Countess of Lonsdale, from Ireland, announced that the wedding will probably take place shortly after his graduation from Harvard next June. Miss Cubberly is the daughter of Dr. Harvey Cushing, noted.

Many Boston tourists returned on the Caledonia.

The White Star liner Cedric sailed from Commonwealth Pier for Queenstown and Liverpool with an exceptionally large passenger list. Among them were: Mrs. J. D. Uppshur, Dr. George Vincent, Miss Marjorie Wilson, Mary N. Woodward, all of Boston.

Missing Revere Men Back at Home

The search for two brothers, Kenneth and Frederick Mosher of Boston, who were reported missing after being taken aboard the coast guard cutter and police boat, ended on Saturday when they were found floating off Peabody's Island, where they had been taken ashore.

Their boat was found floating about near Boston Light, and its ownership was traced to the brothers. They had been taken aboard the Peabody's to go fishing and when they got away from them, used their boat to start for home.

THE QUESTION

Do you fear compulsory retirement of school teachers when they reach the age of 70?

MISS VIRGINIA NASH, Clifford St. Milton—The longer a teacher is doing educational work in a school the more qualified he becomes. No age limit should be set for school teachers as when a teacher should be compelled to resign provided the teacher is a competent and efficient teacher. I am capable of continuing to do my work as long as I am able to do so.

MISS HELEN KANE, Bay-side, L. I.—I stand to reason that a man of 70 or 80 should not be a teacher. If he is not showing signs of decrepitude, he has gained a wide experience in whatever business or profession he has followed. In the school room a teacher improves each year. I am generally well and I am found to understand the training of young minds far better than a teacher just out of college. There should be no law making it necessary to retire a brilliant teacher for no other reason than that he has become three score and 10 years old.

Chinese Clans Meet to Honor Revered Ancestors

Ancestor worship has long been a custom in the Flowery Land and the sons of China when abroad carry on. Before the new ancestral temple at the Gee How Oak Ten Association's quarters, in Harrison ave., the clans of Chin and Wu and Yuen gathered and, with quaint ceremonial, paid respects to the shades of their departed forebears. (Boston Evening American staff photo.)

GIRL "ELOPER" STILL MISSING

With police of Cambridge, Boston and Springfield unsuccessful in attempts to locate her, Mr. and Mrs. James S. Burke of Pemberton st., North Cambridge, anxiously awaited news of their daughter, who disappeared on Saturday night with a boy friend, known only to the girl's parents as "Alce."

James Burke, the girl's father, said that no word had been received from his daughter. He had also been unsuccessful, he said, in his attempts to learn the full name or address of the young man with whom she went away. All that he knows about the man, who by this time may be his son-in-law, is that he was employed in Springfield as a machanic.

Oldest Chinese Clans Honor Ancestor.

Hundreds of New England members of the world's oldest and largest family—437 years in age and millions in number—gathered in this city to celebrate the birthday of their common ancestor, an emperor who ruled more than 2000 years before Christ.

The place was Boston's Chinatown and the family was the Chin family, all direct descendants of Chung Wah, first Emperor of China. The celebration will continue for two weeks.

As part of the opening festivities was the dedication of the new home at 198 Harrison ave. of the Gee How Oak Ten Association of New England, the official body that rules the Chin family.

After the dedication of the new building, a four-story structure of white limestone with an open balcony in the approved San Francisco Chinatown fashion, there was a dinner at the several restaurants in the district.

Among the guests present at the exercise and banquet were: Mrs. Anna Tillinghast, Commissioner of Immigration for Boston; Mrs. Curtis Gault, ex-lieutenant Edward P. Barry, Freeman O. Emerson, representing Mayor Nichols; Z. M. Almeida, consul for Brazil and Nicaragua; Everett Damm, representing Governor Allen; ex-Congressman Joseph P. O'Connor.

In the early days it was this animal that helped them in their farming and rearing.

AUTO CRASHES TAKE TOLL OF FIVE LIVES

Confused Driver and a Wild Motorcycle Responsible for Two Accidents

Two women, two aged men and a 3-year-old boy were killed by automobiles, and several others were injured in week-end accidents in New England.

George Powers, 68, of Bath, N. H., and his wife, 60, met death when their small touring car was struck by a train on the Ben Bow crossing near Woodsville, N. H.

Powers, according to witnesses, apparently became confused and lost control of the machine while driving up a grade to the crossing. The auto plunged directly into the path of the train, the locomotive dragging it for more than 300 feet and hurling it down an embankment a complete wreck.

Powers was thrown 30 feet and died instantly. Mrs. Powers remained in the machine as it rolled down the embankment, and lived for a few minutes after help arrived.

At Fitchburg, Miss Helen Stratton, 46, prominent in educational circles in New England and for 28 years a teacher in Fitchburg high school, died on the way to the hospital after the automobile in which she was riding, was struck by another car.

Low Hart, 60, of Westfield, was killed when a motorcycle, from the motor had fallen while skidding, plunged into a crowd of spectators at Stamford.

Martin Latham, 41, of Great Barrington, died in Pittsfield, victim of a hit-and-run driver.

COP INJURED BY SPEEDING AUTO JOINS CHASE

Revere Man Held on Several Charges After Long Chase Through Chelsea

An alleged hit and run driver, also said to have been drunk, gave the Chelsea police a thrilling chase, during which nine shots were fired by the officers after he was said to have run his machine into Parkman John S. O'Neill as he was crossing the Revere Beach parkway at Washington ave.

Five officers, two on motorcycles, took part in the chase, which finally led to the arrest of Louis Russo, 23, of Revere st., Revere.

After striking O'Neill the car sped along the parkway, O'Neill suffering from injuries to his back and shoulder, commanded another machine and gave chase. He was joined by Parkman Jeremiah Hurley.

The chase took them through several streets adjoining the parkway, and several shots hit the car, striking the left front tire and raising the operator to abandon the machine.

Sgt. Walter Berden and Motorcycle Officers Whitten and Pike arrested Russo in his home. He was booked for drunkenness, operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, going to the hospital after an injury, and operating so that the lives and safety of the public might be endangered.

Patrolman O'Neill was taken to his home. He is confined to bed suffering from his injuries.

It is stated that Russo, who had been arrested after the chase, was advertised daily in the New Boston papers.

SHIRES CAN HIT—AND HOW

ART SHIRES of the Chicago White Sox leads the big leaguers in hitting this year. Art's name will not appear in the records, but he's the champ, just the same. He batted a couple off Manager Blackburn's shutters, and that performance stands all by itself in modern baseball.

NICK FLATLEY

Players have taken swings at the mgs. But not more than once. They aren't there for another. Shires, who admits that he's the best ball player the game ever has seen, broke all records. He gave Lena a shanty, as the boys say, down south this spring. Then, for the sake of harmony or something, that was fixed up. Art was restored to grace. He played all summer, and played well, incidentally. He almost lived up to his boasts. Being a star became a bit monotonous. So, the other evening, he took another shot at his boss, and registered a bulleye—a black one.

Naturally, he was set down for that. It was announced that he would never play with the Chicago again. That shouldn't make anyone mad. But baseball will have to do something about it. The game is polite nowadays. Shires was wrong, because there isn't a better chap in the game than the same Mr. Blackburn. Ginger ale did it.

It will cause a lot of moaning, though, when an stasivic prospect like Art gets the air. The game has tamed down, fearfully, but the fan hasn't.

This and That

Campolo row has been postponed another week. Phil Scott must think he's matched with Schmeling again.

The Braves are proving that two games can be tossed away as easily as one, any afternoon.

Remember we remarked a week ago that Campolo had a bad hand instead of a sore back. 'Twill be a miracle if that fight ever goes on.

Danny McFayden would be right in there, if the most valuable player stunt hadn't been abolished. Quite a pitcher, Daniel.

Both Boston ball clubs are like last winter's cinders—buried in the cellar.

Bill Tilden is through—for another year.

Many a pa will be broke, if amateur golfers have to pay their own expenses.

Personalities

President Barnard of the A. L. picks the Athletics to win the world series. You can now look for J. Heydier to nominate the Cubs.

Gun Sonnenberg says he will quit when beaten. Don't fail for that.

Walter Oleson admits that two of the football rules need redrafting. So does all the near-beer.

Mike Costello chirps that they call Wilson Hack because of his drive.

Fred Hoy should broadcast the world series. No other muke assaulter can touch him when it comes to feeding the fans what they want. But Fred will not.

Rogers Hornbly announced when he took over the management of the Braves that he would be in the world series within three years. He was right.

Heinie Mueller in Again

The Shires explosion recalls an incident in the checkered career of Heinie Mueller, the comedian, who was with the Braves this spring. Heinie was playing with Toronto last year. In the clubhouse, he walked into an argument with Jeff Pfeffer, who is bigger than Willard.

Heinie doesn't nuck his spits, and he took a swing at Jeff. He missed and was warming up for another when Manager Casey Stengel grabbed him.

"Hey, Mueller," yelled Casey, "cut that out. If anyone wants a fight around here, he can fight me."

"Yah," came back Heinie, "and get a big fine."

"Fines are off," said Casey, "if you feel like that. And that goes."

So Heinie bounced one off Casey's whiskers. When the manager came to, he fired Mueller one hundred bucks, and wouldn't listen to arguments.

Ever since, Heinie has been sending Casey collect telegrams. And he had run the bill up to $63.75 last time we met him.

Did You Know?

That the world series is three weeks off, even though both races are over.

That Jack Sharkey will be the favorite when he fights Loughran. And should be.

That the Boston Tigers will probably play at the Garden this winter. And furnish as much kick as the Bruins.

That Lena Blackburn is practically through as White Sox manager. And should be glad of it.

That Billy Hamilton wears a non-skid band in his hat.

HARVARD GRIDMEN START TRAINING TODAY

BOYS' LOOK OVER NEW CRIMSON STRIPED PANTS

8 REGULARS REPORT TO HORWEEN

ONE of the brightest football seasons in many years seems ahead of Harvard this fall. In veteran, new material and coaching, the Crimson is equipped with the best in a decade.

The candidate report to Andie Horween today begins intense training for a hard schedule ahead. There might be some from last year's team, enough to form a nucleus for a handful of a powerful team.

The regulars report today are: O'Connell Douglas, end; Capt. Barrett, end; Trainor, end; Bill Tinkner, guard; Ben Tinker, center; and Puns and Hiper, backs.

The Harvard line of a year ago is practically intact. Only Tim Clark, a tackle, is missing. There are plenty of substitutes and the eligibles may fit into the line or backfield.

Faxon and Kohn are at present the most likely looking successors to Clark, while Harold Levin, former Boston Latin star, will make a hard fight in the position.

There is an abundance of material from which Horween can select centers and ends. Eben Tinker, who will probably be the regular center, has several excellent substitutes in Gola, Cunningham, Richards and Brown.

On the wings Horween has several players of worthy caliber, the more prominent being Rupp. Record, former of Brooklyn High, and caps of last year's Freshman track team, and Valen Moushegin, of Lowell.

GRAHAM IS DUE HERE TODAY

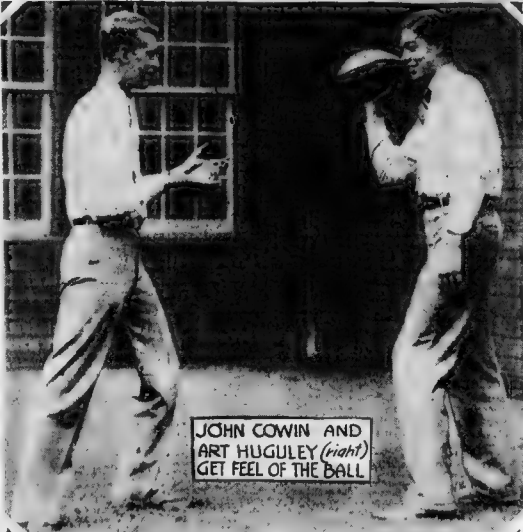

With his first Hub training session scheduled at Kelly & Hayes, gymnasium tomorrow afternoon, Hugh Graham of Utes, N. Y. world's heavyweight champion, will arrive here today for his important ring encounter with Aray Martin at the Boston Garden, next Friday night.

North End boxing enthusiasts are planning a warm welcome for the little Italian knockout king, whose tremendous punch has carried him to the top of the battle pile and promises to annex for him his second world's title within the next few months.

For Graham insists that he will dislodge Andre Routis as featherweight king of the world, when he finally prevails the champion in step into the ring with him.

This approaching bout with Martin is Graham's first important step to become featherweight champion. All of his previous bouts have been against bantams.

And, while Martin is regarded today as one of the reigning featherweights in the East, Graham feels confident that he is making no mistake in stepping into the ring with him. The Utes heavyweight relies on his right hand punch to offset Martin's great brilliance and ring experience.

FINAL "TWI" GAME AT FENS

The eighth and deciding game of the Twilight League championship will be played at Fenway Park on Wednesday evening at 8:15 o'clock, according to J. Warren Mooney, league president, who has arranged with Sox Quinn for the use of the Red Sox park.

Normie Sims was originally set for a Fenway field, Rosindale, but the election of goal posts there by the park department caused Manager Fred Mellen of the Rosindale Club to ask for another playing site.

Frank Mulikan, who handled a 63 win over Quincy in Sunday's game, will again be in the box for Rosindale. Normie Sims will pitch for Quincy.

The standing in three series so far favors Quincy which has won three, lost one and tied two of the seven contests played.

Cadet Squad Speeds Up in Training

WEST POINT, N. Y., Sept. 16.—Scurrimage is scheduled to start at the U. S. Military Academy tomorrow, according to the present plans of Capt. "Bill" Jones, head football coach.

Development of Army attack plays is far behind that of last year and during the next two weeks the cadets are due for many heavy workouts in preparation for the Boston University game on September 28.

Since practice started, the team has learned a few simple line plays and passes, none of which have been tested against the stiff opposition Army scrum always give.

New Harvard who have attracted attention in dummy scrimmages, but have still the acid test of a big game or even hard scrimmage confronting them are Miller, Burns, Spangler, Prior, Hittinger, Courville, Simonson and Tice.

Capt. Jones expects that these players will develop to fill the niches left vacant by Sprague, Hammett and Hall.

While the center situation is still acute Miller, Gordon and Lazar are developing. They are all inexperienced and in practice sessions to date are none too accurate.

Army has always required considerable from its centers and the loss of Bill Hall, last year's aggressive "snapper back" will be mainly felt.

CAMPOLLO BOUT IS POSTPONED

New York, Sept. 16.—Indefinite postponement of the Campolo Scott bout, scheduled for Ebbetts field on Wednesday, was announced by the office of Humbert J. Fugazy.

The postponement was asked by Campolo, whose training has been badly interfered with by an injury to his back.

The giant Argentine asked that the fight be set back to a week tomorrow night so that he could have a few more days in which to train.

Fugazy indicated he was agreeable to this program and will ask the New York State Athletic Commission to approve the new date.

Murrell will again be the mainstay with the Army kickers and he is taking long workouts every afternoon. Lieut. "Doc" Roeder, who was a star kicker several years ago, is giving the husky fullback the benefit of all his experience.

Capt. Jones expects considerable improvement this year.

EVENING AMERICAN

SAYS HE'S GREEN 'HEAVY'

BY JACK CONWAY
HARVEY LAKE, Sept. 16.—
"I feel that I can defeat Jack Sharkey and the rest of the heavyweights," Tommy Loughran told this writer following a stirring workout before a big Sunday crowd at his training camp here.

"I have always wanted to fight Sharkey," went on Loughran in a quiet way, "but I have been waiting for the right time. Now I have the right time and I am ready to go."

The bout at the Yankee Stadium on September 26 is the big opportunity Loughran has been waiting for. He has been waiting for the right time and he is ready to go.

Jack Conway, who has been waiting for the right time, is now ready to go. He has been waiting for the right time and he is ready to go.

Ray Doherty, who has been waiting for the right time, is now ready to go. He has been waiting for the right time and he is ready to go.

Bill Nolan, who has been waiting for the right time, is now ready to go. He has been waiting for the right time and he is ready to go.

Tommy Loughran, who has been waiting for the right time, is now ready to go. He has been waiting for the right time and he is ready to go.

During his Sunday workout, Loughran tossed 30 right hand punches for the chin. And more important, his judgment of distance was good. He was not only hitting his partners with his sparring partners, but he was also hitting them with his right hand.

Frank Bruen, vice-president of the Garden, who is in charge of the Sharkey-Loughran bout, is much impressed by Tommy's work.

AM glad to see Loughran punching so hard with his right. This convinces me that he is going to try to knock Sharkey out. Jack also intends to attempt to flatten Loughran. I am sure which man wins, but I would like a decisive winner. The fans are eager for a very exciting fight. This was because he proved himself a real fighter.

NEW "SOX" FOR OLD

Ray Doherty, above, former Holy Cross pitcher, who is now with the Red Sox and making good. Ray needs a little more seasoning before he can hope to set down the big leaguers the way he did his college foes.

Bill Nolan, 15-year-old Canisius high boy, won the mile Junior New England swimming championship at the Nautical Swimming Pool.

Joe Nunan, the South Boston star, who was considered unbeatable over the mile course, was in second place, about 20 yards behind young Nolan.

Johnnie Taylor of the Worcester State Club was the third man to finish, about 30 yards in the rear of the South Boston star.

Although the mile was the feature event of the day, the mile, half-mile and 1/4 mile races were also run. In all of these events, the boys of the South Boston team were the winners.

Alphonse Squitieri of Worcester and Billy Smith of Arlington competed in special events, and each set up new New England marks. In a 100-yard dash, Alphonse set a new record of 14 seconds.

CORPORATE

THE BOSTON TIGHT CLUB, President Bernard of the American League, was a guest of President Bobbie Quinn at the Red Sox-White Sox double-header.

After viewing the big crowd in attendance to watch the seventh and eighth place games performed, he said: "Boston is still a pretty good ball town, after all. With a winning team, there is no doubt that the club would be among the leaders in attendance."

The announcement that Hugo Nelson will not report for another week and probably the last for the opening game with West Point, September 25, is a disappointing piece of news as Nelson is a halfback of three seasons experience and in addition to being a good ball-carrier is a reliable punter.

The playing of Santo Marino and Paul Pini will receive the closest attention of the Terrier nation as one of these boys will start the season at quarterback. The final selection is a tossup at the present time but within the next few days and possibly after the boys' scrimmage one of these boys will win the starting post as a signal caller.

Solly Thurman has been shifted back to his old berth at halfback where he has excelled in the last three seasons. The removal of Thurman from the quarterback's berth is a pretty good indication that the Red Sox coaching staff is satisfied with the work of Marino and Pini.

Today's practice will afford Coach Brown and Robinson their first opportunity of watching some of the linemen under fire and there may be several shifts in the forward line after today.

Villanova Yearlings Are All 6-Footers
Villanova College expects to have the record, wearing club in its football history. From end to end the team stands six feet and over. The average weight of the line will be 150 lbs.

Starting with Kersch, at left end, and ending with Donohue at right end, and every man but two will be six feet and over.

The two men excepted making up for their lack of size by their foot beam by weighing 205 and 160, respectively.

M'KENNEY

TO GET A C. SQUAD

JOE MCKENNEY, head coach of the Boston College football team, will hold several "scrimmages" this week, and it is expected that he will make a cut in the squad as soon as he is able to size up the best among his 70-odd candidates.

McKenney's duties call for scrimmage today, Wednesday and Friday, with heavy workouts scheduled in between.

If the great exhibition put on last Friday is any criterion, there should be plenty of fireworks in the next few days.

On that occasion a variety team ran roughshod over a scrub outfit, scoring three touchdowns and two points after, within 15 minutes of taking the field.

The quality of play shown by the Creedon-directed eleven was an international contest. But make no mistake, it is a race.

From all over the peninsula, the best players, near neighbors, were brought to the ground game. Landlubber matched their speed and skill over an eight-mile triangular course.

Anything that could carry a yardage was used. The players who answered the starter's gun, "Go," were the best. They just plain scowled away to the cheers of thousands that lined the banks.

The handicapping committee knew what it was doing when it sent the Indian Maroon class away last. The descendants of the poor Indian had a job cut out for them. And how they did it.

How to Hit Into Wind

By HORTON SMITH
PRESENTED my opinions of how not to play in the wind. Now I shall give the affirmative side of that problem by telling how to best battle such breezes.

With the exception of the de- liberate pull shot to circumvent a "blow" which requires a great degree of expert skill, my methods of playing with or against the breeze are so simple that even novices should find them of benefit. I have grasped the following principles and practiced these fundamentals on windy days.

In the first place, do not think of the wind as a "blow" or a "blast" with a very definite part of the mechanism of the swing. It is far better to let the breeze be a "blow" or a "blast" rather than an "actual blow."

Let the chance come by a far more simple means of standing, and aiming slightly to the right, pulling the ball rather more into the "eye of the wind."

THIS is why first-class players seem able to hit their shots with ease straight down the "middle," no matter from which direction the wind is blowing.

Another aid toward success which the novice should bear in mind is that, when the swing is in progress, the body should be braced against the wind.

By this I do not mean that the arms should be unnaturally stiffened, or that the arms and wrists should be converted into poker.

All I mean is that when the ball is struck, the player on the left should be braced against the wind, he should make sure the ball is struck back on the heels in the desired direction.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
Golf's Greatest Teacher
We have noted a few things about the right elbow and its position at the start-back; now let's see what it does in the follow-through.

At the half way mark Nolan was still in the lead with Trickett second and John Coult of Brockton third. Bill Nolan at this point was about 20 yards behind the first man. After passing the half way mark, Nolan started to come strong and on each turn gained on the South Boston fat boy.

By the time the three-quarter mark had been reached, Nolan was swimming neck and neck with the light champion and gaining on each stroke. From that point on, Nolan led Richard Trickett, who on each turn to win the race about 20 yards in front of Nolan.
